JAPANESE HANDWRITING SERIES

VOLUME 2 | N4

Japanese Handwriting Builder

16-week vocabulary, kanji and sentence writing | Supports JLPT N4 preparation

PRINT-READY · A4 PORTRAIT · SINGLE-SIDED RECOMMENDED

Independent study workbook · Not affiliated with the JLPT

How this workbook works

THE ROUTINE

Observe the model. Say the sound or word. Trace sparingly. Copy without tracing. Cover the model. Write from memory. Use what you learned in a word or sentence. Return after a delay.

PRACTISE SMART

Work for 15–30 minutes at a time. Aim for relaxed accuracy first; speed comes later. Stop or change your grip and posture if you feel pain or persistent strain.

What this prepares you for

IMPORTANT JLPT NOTE

The JLPT measures language knowledge, reading and listening; it has no handwriting-production section. These exercises support vocabulary/character recognition and writing fluency but are not a complete JLPT course.

CHARACTER COVERAGE

This workbook uses a research-based, unofficial coverage set: 103 N5 kanji and 181 additional N4 kanji. No fixed official JLPT kanji or vocabulary list is published. Pair this workbook with listening, reading and grammar study.

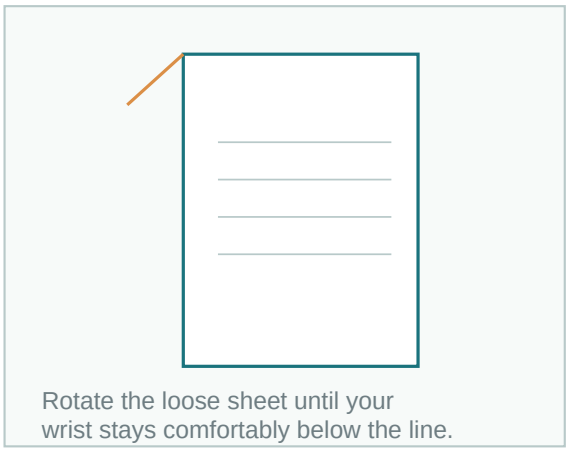

Your left-hand writing station

SHEET AND MODEL PLACEMENT

Place the copying model above the practice row so your left hand does not hide it. Use loose pages on a firm writing surface. Try a gentle clockwise paper turn; adjust the angle to keep your wrist comfortable.

COMFORT FIRST

Rest your forearm, keep the pencil pressure light, and experiment with your grip rather than forcing a hooked wrist. A fast-drying fine pen or pencil may reduce smearing. Use either hand to steady the page.

Rotate the loose sheet until your wrist stays comfortably below the line.

Pressure, posture and warmup

TWO-MINUTE SETUP

Sit upright with relaxed shoulders; support your forearm. Hold your pen lightly. Draw a row of large loops, short lines, circles and gentle hooks. Make each line with a steady movement.

SELF-CHECK

If you are gripping hard, stop and loosen it. If forms deteriorate, take a break. A comfortable, repeatable movement is more valuable than a high number of repetitions.

How to read the writing grids

SQUARE GUIDES

The outer border is your character space. The faint horizontal and vertical centre marks help with balance and size. Keep kana and kanji inside the box, leaving a little breathing room.

FROM LARGE TO SMALL

N5 begins with larger squares. N4 gradually introduces 12–13 mm and 10 mm cells. Larger grids remain available whenever a complex character needs more room.

Your study calendar

N4 PATH

N4: 16 weeks of new kanji, vocabulary and grammar-supported sentence practice, with cumulative review every two weeks. Review any uncertain N5 items first.

HOW TO SCHEDULE

In N4, aim for six short sessions each week, with a rest or review day. Repeat difficult items the next day, several days later and in later weeks. Follow your recall, not a rigid page quota.

16 Final N4 review

Schedule 6 short writing sessions per week, with regular cumulative review.

A repeatable learning cycle

THE SIX-STEP CYCLE

1. Look carefully. 2. Say the sound or vocabulary word. 3. Air-write or trace once. 4. Copy slowly.
5. Cover the sample and retrieve. 6. Use it and check again tomorrow.

THE MOST VALUABLE STEP

Writing from memory reveals what you actually know. Mark errors clearly; revisit the specific character instead of blindly repeating a whole line.

Baseline test / first writing sample

WITHOUT JUDGEMENT

Write your name, five straight lines, five circles, and (if known) あ い う え お or 一 二 三. Date this page. Save it to compare against your later writing.

HOW TO RATE

Give yourself 0–3 for comfort, shape clarity, uniform size and control. Record how long you can write before fatigue; do not force a speed test.

Personal goals and progress tracker

YOUR PURPOSE

Write why you want to handwrite Japanese. Choose an achievable goal for your first two weeks (for example: write basic kana from memory or reduce pencil pressure).

PROGRESS METRICS

Track first-attempt recall, comfortable writing time, legibility and error types. Celebrate correctly recalled words and sentences, not just pages completed.

Six-week maintenance plan

DAYS 1·2

Review 15 weak kanji from memory, then apply them in 10 vocabulary items.

DAYS 3·4

Copy and reconstruct 4 complete N4-level sentences with accurate particles and endings.

DAY 5

Mix N5/N4 words and read them aloud; do a relaxed timed writing session.

DAY 6

Write an original daily note (5–8 sentences) and review corrections.

DAY 7

Rest or do an optional light recognition check.
